

VERONICA VP PEREZ

& ASSOCIATES

Daniel Brumer is a strategic partner with Veronica Perez & Associates, and provides counsel on complex political, regulatory, land use, and other matters involving state and local government in California. He was previously a senior advisor to Los Angeles City Councilman Paul Krekorian, responsible for all land use and economic development matters, and a planning and land use deputy to former Los Angeles City Councilman Tom LaBonge.

Daniel also practices law* as a partner at Brumer Law Group, P.C., a boutique firm focusing on all aspects of real estate and corporate transactions. His law practice includes representing public and private companies, real estate developers, equity investors and lenders in a variety of transactions involving acquisitions and dispositions, leasing, development, joint ventures, land title, and debt and equity financings. He was previously an attorney at O'Melveny & Myers LLP, the oldest law firm in Los Angeles, where he represented public and private companies in mergers, acquisitions, dispositions, financings, and other corporate transactions.

Daniel received his Juris Doctor from Columbia Law School in 2007, where he was a Harlan Fiske Stone Scholar and a James Kent Scholar for high academic honors, and earned a Bachelor of Arts degree in economics from the University of Maryland in 2002, where he was named to the Distinguished Dean's List and a member of the University's Burns Academy of Leadership. He is also a past founding Director and Corporate Secretary of Crown Preparatory Academy, a Los Angeles Unified School District public charter school, and a licensed California real estate broker.

*Daniel does not provide legal services in consulting engagements, and no attorney-client relationship is created without a direct written engagement for legal services with Brumer Law Group, P.C.
